GET OUT THE SAUTE PAN and the Cajun seasonings — it's time for Mardi Gras. The Northern Rhode Island Council of the Arts will host its Mardi Gras celebration on Feb. 7 with dinner and dancing at four sites, and it's not just the music that's coming from Louisiana. Local chefs, like Ronnie Dumas, right, of Uncle Ronnie's Fine Catering, have come up with buffet menus with a New Orleans flavor. Looking over some of the ingredients at Uncle Ronnie's headquarters, the Enrico Caruso Club in Manville, are Sue Tessier MacKenzie, left, chairperson of the celebration, and Marlene Gagnon, secretary for the Council of the Arts. Mardi Gras patrons can find out who's serving what at all four Mardi Gras balls on Page B-3.
